"Death Takes A Holiday" Next Tuesday

LECTURER HERE SOON; PIANIST PLAYS CONCERT

Baron Erik Kuehnelt-Leddin, lecturer, author, linguist, authority on European affairs, and extensive traveler, will speak here Saturday, March 1, on the topic, "Bolshevism of Today and Its Origin."

Although an Austrian, he has visited every country of Europe and is well acquainted with all European problems. He has visited Russia several times, legally as well as illegally, where he gained first-hand knowledge of Bolshevism. Recently, he has been a resident of the United States.

At present he is Chairman of the Department of Sociology in St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N. J. He is an eminent linguist, speaking no less than sixteen languages, eight of them fluently.

The Baron is the author of several well-known books, Night Over the East, Gates of Hell, and Moscow 1979.

Pianist Here

Richard Carpenter, pianist, of Muncie, Ind., will present a program in the College auditorium, March 10.

Hanley Award Gives Fine Opportunities

Junior and senior science majors will again have the opportunity to compete for the Hanley Science Award. This award, in the form of a fifty-dollar check, will go to the student writing and delivering the best essay on a topic in the fields of science.

The award, made possible through the generous efforts of Mr. William A. Hanley, '08, of Indianapolis, has been offered in prize competition for the past three years. Ted Stout, Robert Danahey, and Steve Theodosios are the previous winners.

The science department is already encouraging students to enter the competition. The contest will be held the first week in May, with the award presented on graduation day.

Raleigh Valentine Dance Boasts of Large Crowd

The Raleigh Club held its Second Annual Valentine dance last Saturday night, February 15, in the Rensselaer Armory. There was a large crowd and the girls were plentiful, thanks to local C. Y. O. units.

With the Sultans of Jive providing the music, the dancing began at 8:30 p. m. and continued through to 12:00 p. m. The band did one swell job and many com-

Tonight Sees Senior Feast Held Uptown

Tonight in the banquet room of Lunghi's Restaurant the senior class will hold its annual Senior Banquet.

Feasting with the members of the class will be the following guests: the V. Rev. Dr. Aloys H. Dirksen, C. PP. S., College President, the Rev. Dr. Henry A. Lucks, C. PP. S., Dean of Studies, the Rev. Norman G. Koller, C. PP. S., Dean of Men, the Rev. Francis A. Hehn, C. PP. S., Senior Class Moderator, and Mr. Burkert Friedorsdorf, manager of the Rensselaer theatres.

Following the meal, short talks will be delivered by the guests, who will be introduced by Richard M. Scheiber, class president.

Press Exhibit Gets Fine Reception

A Catholic Press Exhibit, sponsored by the Sanguinist Club for Catholic Action, closed at noon Monday. The exhibit that was attended by over 250 students and faculty members, proved to be a great success.

The display occupied both of the reception rooms in the main building. The first of these accommodated various university and college papers and numerous diocesan organs. An interesting pamphlet display, along with jackets of the latest Catholic books, and a case filled with the works of the Confraternity of the Precious Blood, occupied this room.

The walls of the other room were decorated with paintings by C. Bosseron Chambers, the famous Catholic painter. This, together with a special display by the Bruce Publishing Company and a case filled with first editions, the property of the Rev. Paul F. Speckbaugh, C. PP. S., completed the exhibit.

SHADES OF FALL!

Ghosts of past days were revived for prospective members of the Commerce Club Monday night. Twenty-five of them began initiation days. They will be received into the club with due ceremony Thursday night.

pliments were heard in favor of the boys, all of whom have been working hard to make their band a success. It was their first appearance before the student body.

The decorations were of red and white crepe paper with a general valentine design. Everyone received an appropriate novelty for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dienhart, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scharf, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Conley acted as chaperons.

Three-Act Comedy Depicts Death As Real Life in College Theatre

forthcoming "Death Takes A Holiday." To the left, the Rev. Dr. P. F. Speckbaugh, C. PP. S., gives some last-minute instructions to Joan Wood who plays the part of Rhoda Fenton. Curtain is scheduled to go up on the production the night of Feb. 25. All feminine roles were cast through the cooperation of the CYO.

Alumni Hall's curtain will go up at 8:00 Tuesday on the Columbian Literary Society's production of Alberto Casella's three-act comedy, "Death Takes a Holiday."

This striking drama, that has established itself as one of the important plays of our time, is based on the poetic conception of death suspending all activities for three days, in which time he learns why men fear him.

The play, one that is gay throughout, has a very important message. It symbolizes death, not as something to be feared, but as life, real life. Death conquers all only to become aware that death also has a conqueror. It is a thrilling drama that affords the spectators every opportunity to enjoy different phases of life in the contrast of characters.

"Death Takes A Holiday" is the sort of play that arouses thought, stimulates discussion, and presents a novel and optimistic philosophy on the problems of love and death. The mood of the play is established with remarkable skill, and while it is charged with exciting moments, it is a perfect background for a love story that is as simple as it is appealing.

The characters themselves will be as human and exciting as life, yet as real and as mysterious as death. Alda is a woman of twenty-eight, slender and beautiful, whose manner suggests restrained restlessness and hunger. Grazia is a lovely girl of eighteen, charming and gentle, but oddly remote. Corrado is a dark, beautifully-mannered man of twenty-two, with a slightly dissipated face.

Prince Sirki, a man of distinguished appearance, is a man of the world. And so with every character, there is a contrast. Besides these are many more—all appealing, all different, all exciting.

The 1941 version of "Death Takes A Holiday" by the Columbian Literary Society should be

Band, Orchestra Will Play Mar. 5

A rare treat is in store for music lovers on March 5, when the College band, under the direction of Prof. Paul Tonner, will offer its first concert of the year.

During the intermission, the Sultans of Jive will appear to demonstrate their skill for campus swing fans.

Highlight of the program will be the presentation of a flag to the College by the American Legion Post of Rensselaer.

According to Prof. Tonner, the program will include compositions by such well-known composers as Liszt, Bach, Chopin, and Grieg. A cornet trio, Three Kings, will be played by Jim Zaumeyer, Jim Taylor, and Frank Basedow.

Firestone in Army

Clinton D. Firestone, Jr., of Akron, Ohio, who spent five years in St. Joseph's college and academy and who will be remembered by many of the students, completed his basic flight training in the Army Air corps last week.

Firestone, who left Collegeville last June after having spent three years in the Academy and two years in the college department, is stationed at Randolph Field, Texas.

He will soon begin a ten-week advanced flying course at Kelly Field. Clinton will then be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant and will be awarded his wings.

long remembered by all Collegeville residents. It should be entertaining because it is real life presented in a most unique manner.

.... SQUIBS

St. Joseph's College swing band, the Sultans of Jive—who scored such a hit at the Valentine Dance—will play for a Washington's Birthday Ball, Saturday evening, Feb. 22.

The dance will be staged in St. Gerald's auditorium, located in Oak Lawn, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. The band will leave Friday afternoon and return Sunday.

MACHINES ARRIVE

Machines for the new Machine Accounting course to be offered in the Commerce Department this semester have arrived. There has been no announcement concerning the date for the beginning of the course.

The Hipskind Construction Co removed their plumbing shop from the west side of Noll Hall last Tuesday afternoon. The shop, erected early last summer, has housed the plumbing equipment used in the construction of Noll Residence Hall.

"Green Grass Grew All 'Round" went the old song. And the Fieldhouse, just before work on the floor began, was a perfect example. During last week's cold weather, little patches of green grass, encouraged by the heat inside, cropped up.

Fr. G. Esser Speaks

The Rev. Gilbert Esser, C. PP. S., will address the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion Friday night. His talk, to be given in the auditorium of Rensselaer's elementary school, will be concerned with National Defense.

So many young men and women—college students not excepted—live their youth in total oblivion to the things that are everywhere about them. Their criterion might be easily summed up as "There is plenty of time left." When conditions arise that require thought, that require something more than a superficial hearing and shaking of the head, the average youth of today is lost in the wilderness of his own oblivion. And the strange—unhappily strange—part of it is that this same average youth just doesn't seem to be troubled about oblivion.

There is a prevailing shadow of this indifferentism that is growing rapidly instead of diminishing. The attitude of some modern youth actually becomes frightening when one stops to think that even in this world of year-long lifetimes youth must still become the adult on the morrow. If for no other reason, oblivion and disinterest should vanish at the thought of someday growing up to responsibility.

A splendid opportunity for self-satisfaction and the beginnings of universal betterment awaits the student who will look to the future. To be specific: The student here, as well as in other schools, should be looking toward the future. He should be striving for a goal instead of wandering about aimlessly. By the time a man is old enough to enroll in college he should have at least the outlines of future life mapped out in his mind. Again, to be specific, there will never be inspiration in an idle moment; there will never be inspiration where inspiration is not already. Look for it in something solid. Grasp it. How? Try God and make the things of God your own. "You can lose time walking, standing, sitting, or lying down, but not kneeling."

Some one once said that "There is no ignoramus more dangerous than the ignoramus with a college degree." A man who travels under the pretense of education is a far worse character than the man who cannot spell his name yet speaks with honesty. One of the fundamental reasons for the state of the world today is traceable to a kind of "half-education" that stops thinking while yet in the stage of half-truth.

Watch in a crowd some time. Watch for it on the campus and in your residence hall. The man who is ever first to speak his mind is the man who has only developed his mind to an elementary stage. For the most part he has drawn conclusions from premises which have no logical conclusion. He is a dreamer, intentional or otherwise, traveling in the guise of a logician.

Just why the man who knows the truth should stand back when these individuals take the stand is one of those things which are hard to understand. The man who knows should lead the way. And the man who knows often realizes that most arguments can never be settled with a single word. Certainly he knows that they can never be settled by shouting half-truths.

With Dick Scheiber

THESE CHANGING TIMES really show their stripes in a several-years-old picture like "Here Comes the Navy." (see below). Gloria Stewart's dresses in particular take you back to the modern "pre-war" days.

Starts Friday at the RITZ

"Tall Dark and Handsome" has to do with Cesar Romero. It's a picture of hoodlums and gang warfare—but more of a satirical expose than the usual blood-curdling affair. Legion Rating: A-2.

Theatre men call this one a "sleeper," meaning a small-budget picture with little accompanying ballyhoo, but a good flicker at that.

Starts Sunday at the RITZ

Bob Young
Virginia Gilmore

Here are patriotic times—1861, a time when Omaha was booming and Western Union was getting ready to string its telegraph wires across Indian country to the west. They actually called it "Western Union," and starred Robert Young and Randolph Scott. Legion Rating: Unavailable.

Starts Sunday at the PALACE

Talk around Collegeville never really diminished during the past year since the last time we saw Scarlett and Rhett in "Gone With the Wind." Legion Rating: B.

It's back in town again, this time for five days starting Sunday at the PALACE. See the back-page ad for prices.

Starts Wednesday at the RITZ

"Here comes the Navy" in that reissue we were talking about at the top of the column. It offers Jimmy Cagney, Pat O'Brien, and Gloria Stuart. Legion Rating: Unavailable.

Now that we've had our fling with the corn queens, we'd like to get back to normal and try to perk up your drooping spirits with a little.... Question?

How is it that those two newcomers, Klapheke and Kelly, are battling a thousand in the local leisure league? What's the matter with you veterans; are you all going to let them get away with that? How about it, Lipinski?

One bright morning late at night,
Wlekinski and Benchik got up to fight.
Back to back they faced each other,
Drew their swords and shot each other.
A dead prefect heard their cry,
And woke to find that he had died.

'Tiger Bill' Gay is a disappointed yodeler these days after circumstances prevented his chirping with the band last Saturday. That was probably Billy's first and last chance to gain the recognition that he deserves. We offer our sympathy and a padded shoulder to cry on, not to mention some very good advice—"If at first you don't succeed, try playing second."

Kinda Lousy

She: "Where do all the bugs go to in winter?"

He: "Search me."

She: "No, thanks. Just wanted to know."

Doc Etzkorn has taken up the fine art of cultivating the steps of his stumps (often referred to as jitterbugging). Since his teacher is a hometown femme, and since we don't want Doc to forget what he has learned, we advise practicing with his "Roomy," Muscles Ballard.

Have you heard the one about the guy who took off his shoes so he could sneak around in his stalking feet? Time joke..

We regret to announce that Singletree's date for the R. C. hop didn't materialize, so John went to bed early. Besides, the stars were out and he wanted to count them.

And that's where we came in. We'll be back in a flash with a flash—next week.

Modern Youth Looks Back To Past Generations

By John O'Grady

How does modern youth compare with the youth of other generations? Practically every magazine, newspaper, and periodical is devoting a great deal of time and space to this question. Great lecturers and men of education are also expostulating on this current topic. In fact, every one seems to be discussing one way or another the general attitude of the young people of today. STUFF this week goes to its readers in search of candid opinions on the so-called problem children of the present day.

Bill Smith, sophomore from Louisville, Ky.—"The older generation has the wrong impression of us. They don't seem to take into consideration all the problems that confront us. What would the young people of other generations do if they faced the economic, social and religious conflicts that we are encountering?"

Louis Dell, freshman from Tiffin, Ohio—"They are too indifferent in their outlook on life. Youth of today does not display the proper respect for authority."

"Present-day youth will match up with the youth of any other generations"—Edward Litot, a freshman from Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Thomas McNally, sophomore from Youngstown, Ohio, has this interesting comment to make: "The young people of today are very wild. They devote too much time and thought to the less important things of life and neglect the more important, which should receive the greatest care and attention."

Joe Blackwell, junior from Indianapolis, Ind.—"The youth of today is working just as hard as the youth of yesterday worked. In fact, they are laboring harder to keep up the pace the Twentieth Century is setting."

Albert Schraff, junior from Cleveland, Ohio—"Critics are unjustified in harshly criticizing the leaders of tomorrow when they base their judgements on past principles. The youth of today will find himself, perhaps not as readily as our ancestors did, but just as fully."

*Faculty advisor's note: Principles don't change.

A Glance at St. Joe Life

Besides many a headache, this week gives out with—Bill Kozielecki in a happy mood after a successful Raleigh Club dance and after such nice publicity in the metropolis papers.... That product of Lincoln, Ill., Ralph Parker, getting along great with the little gal who played opposite our Romeo in the last C. L. S. venture.... Bob Causland receiving a fine hand after that great drum break in the 'Sultans' interpretation of White Heat.... While during the same piece one of the many Collegeville cutups, Mauri Helm, navigated his date to the sidelines to just 'listen'...

Jack Fischer aided in looking after the Earl Park delegation.... While everyone met or copped a look at Bill Mommer's date.... Father Koller attending the function and commenting on the enjoyable evening....

Joe Blackwell seems to have found something of interest in the operas of late, especially the tale about the cigarette girl, Carmen.... Bud Lang and Bill Herber giving out with many a fantastic tale of their week-end in Chicago.... Then there's Warren Gray, the Goodland product, who does all right by himself in Ren....

Frank Basedow and Ray Heitzman seem to be vieing for the same thing while Johnny Risch, the philatelist, appears contented to just be an in-law of the aforementioned two.... (Comment—quite young, Johnny)....

No doubt you have heard all the Jasper stories by now, so we will not endeavor to retell any. However, we must say that Jasper is the hottest "St. Joe town" (outside Collegeville) that we have ever seen.

Jasper is a great little town—full of fun and everything! It is one of those places where, if you go the first time, you don't have to be drafted the second. And we add, it doesn't hurt a bit if you're from St. Joe.

The referees in the Evansville game called them closer than a "kraut hair-cut." Every time Vanderkolk got within three lengths of his man the whistle blew. We were scared to death that Vandy would touch him and be charged with first degree!

If a certain Evansville sports writer is not president of the Evansville College booster's club, the members missed their man. From the contents of his write-up of the St. Joe game, one would think that he was Doerner's stepfather, and that Mosser "rotten-egged" him five straight Haloweens. Towards the end of the story it did say that Boedeker is a whale of a ball player. We think someone sneaked it in on him.

Jasper high school's two little girl cheer leaders were doing their stuff on behalf of St. Joe.

Here's a plug for a continuation of the St. Joe-Evansville thrillers at Jasper next year. Mosser will be back! Doerner will be back! Boedeker, the Jasper boys, and also most of the Evansville stars will be back. The ole' Jasper hospitality will always be there. It is a natural—and why change nature?

St. Joe's Neal Mosser leads Evansville's Gus Doerner, 276 to 235 points, with each four games from the finish. It looks like Neal has it on ice, but he will be facing the toughest competition on the eastern seaboard while the Aces will be playing around with the little boys.

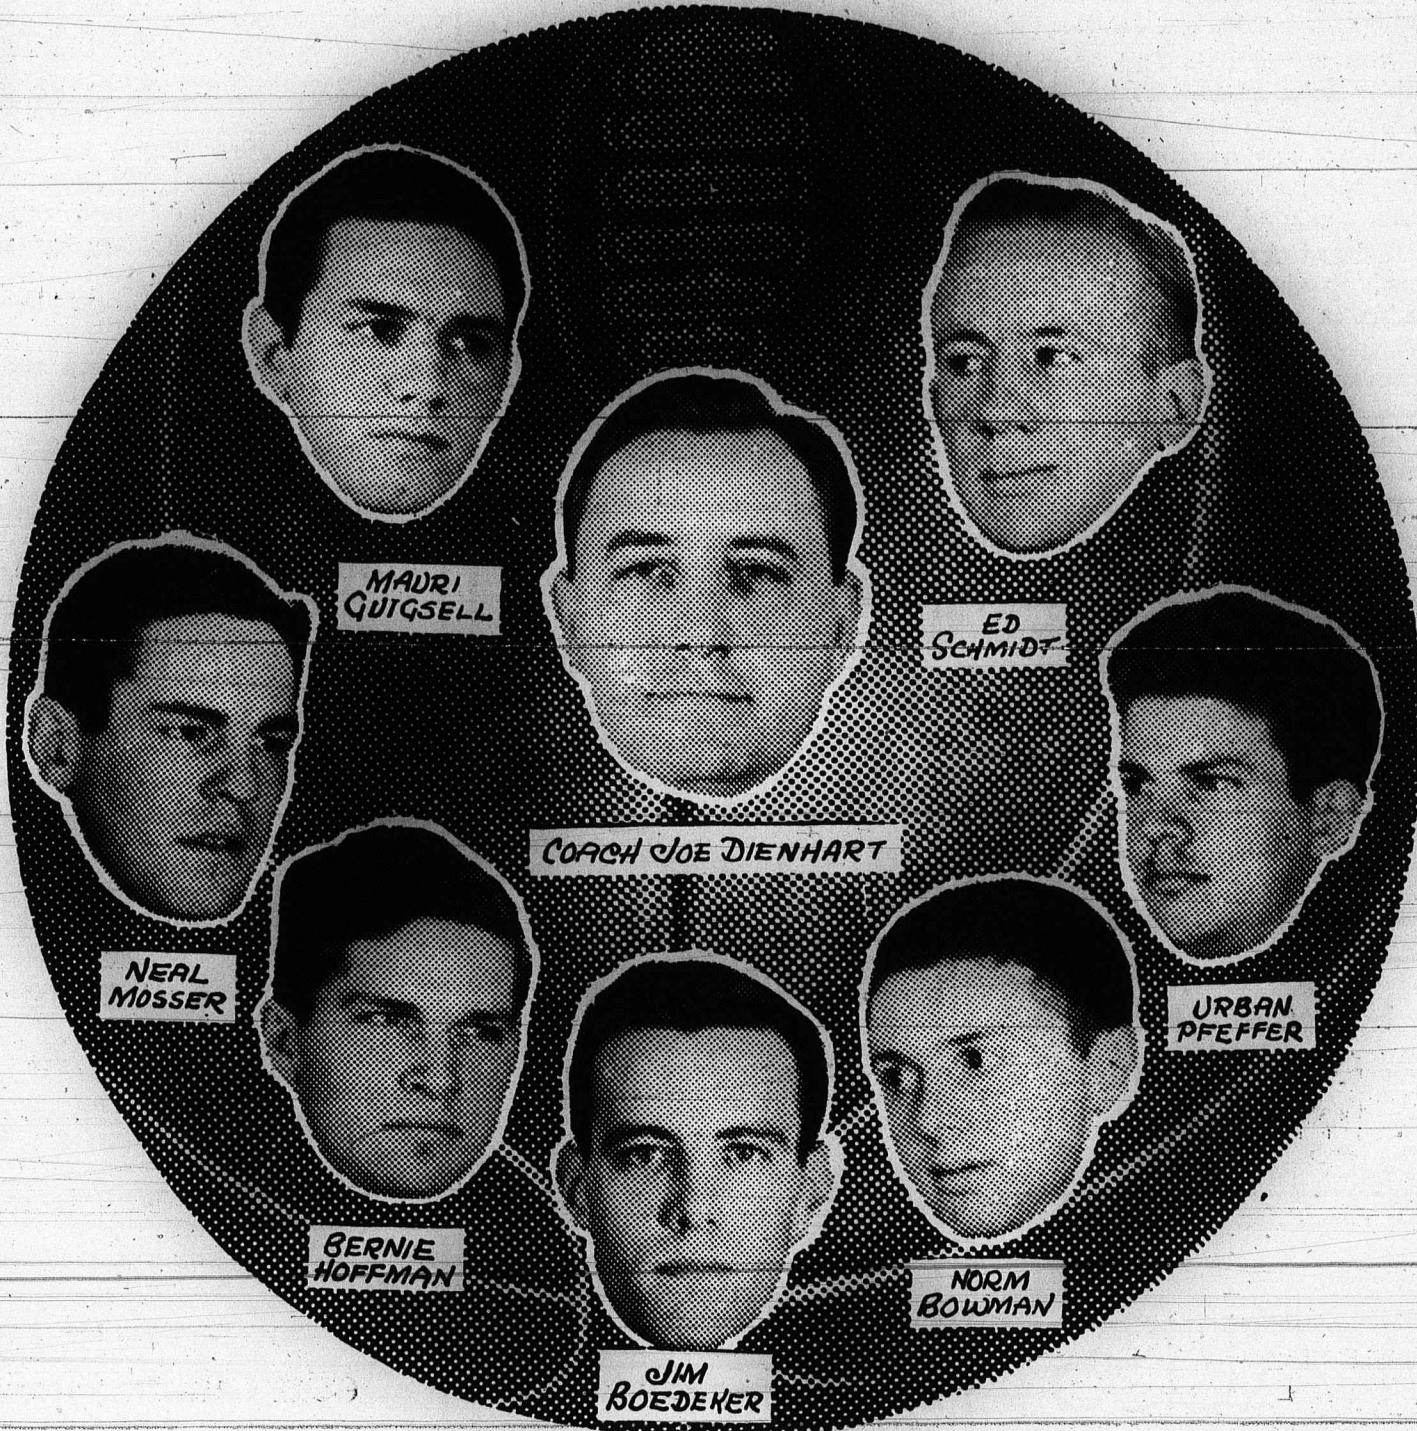

The Pumas hit 30 out of 92 field goal attempts and 14 of 24 charity tosses, against Central Normal's 21 for 82 from the field and 10 for 19 from the foul line. Here is an accuracy chart of the St. Joe players from the field.

Pumas Face Seton Hall, St. Joe, St. Francis On Eastern Campaign

C.N. Falls 74-53; Is Final Home Game

St. Joe's Pumas said farewell to the home fans in a big way last Thursday night by romping over the Central Normal hardwooders, 74-52, in their last home game of the season.

After overcoming an early 6-5 C. N. lead, the Dienhart men roared in with the greatest of ease. The score totaled the highest of any St. Joe game this season, and the Warriors' 52 points were enough to win most ball games.

State scoring champion, Neal Mosser, again led the home team with 26 points, Gutgsell and Hoffman followed with 15 and 12 points respectively.

St. Joe won a much closer game earlier in the season from Central Normal, 40-37, at Danville, Ind.

Thuerk 20, Cody 17. There are 18 games left to be played in League A. League B has only ten to go. Last night's game between Thuerk and Cody attracted most of Drexel's inhabitants to the gallery. By winning the game Thuerk's outfit handed Cody's band their first defeat and regained the top berth in their league. From the close score it looks like Red's team will have to win every game to avoid another meeting with the bawlers.

Upon the shoulders of these fighting Pumas of St. Joseph's College will rest the reputation of Indiana basketball when they invade the East for three major games within the next week.

St. Joe's cage squad embarked on its Eastern invasion this afternoon. The campaign will pit the Pumas against three of the strongest teams in that section—Seton Hall of New Jersey, St. Francis of Brooklyn, and St. Joe of Philadelphia.

The team will spend tonight in Pittsburgh if everything, including the weather, goes according to schedule. Tomorrow night they will practice in the Leigh University gym in Trenton, New Jersey. From Trenton they will go to South Orange to meet Seton Hall on Saturday evening.

Coach John (Honey) Russell of Seton Hall boasts a string of thirty-three successive victories, including the Pirates' undefeated record in nineteen tilts last year. Seton's Bob Davies is the Pirates' star performer. He is rated as one of the best forwards in the East, and was in a recent basketball movie. Saturday's game will be played in Seton Hall's new eight-hundred thousand dollar gymnasium.

Brooklyn on Monday On Monday Dienhart's boys will meet St. Francis of Brooklyn. St. Francis has made quite a reputation in Madison Square Garden, and is rated among the top teams of New York state. After the Francis tilt the Pumas will hit the road for Philadelphia, the home of our namesake, St. Joe. St. Joe of Philly recently handed Butler University a 47-43 defeat. Considering this close score over the Hoosier Bulldogs, St. Joe should

Pugs Meet Valpo In Ring Warfare

Coach Jack Miller's St. Joe boxing squad will travel to Valparaiso Friday night in an effort to repeat the ring victory they registered over the Uhlans pugs at the local armory two weeks ago.

Practically the same boys will answer the gong for the Pumas as were seen in the first fight, with the exception of Tom Scollard, middleweight and Bob (Mike) Hess, welterweight, both of whom dropped the sport. A new face in the Cardinal and Purple corner will be that of Chike Williamson, classy middleweight, who missed the last fight with a case of influenza.

Heavy weight Augie Sunagel will again be out to make short work of Lee Rose, 202-pounder from Valpo. The Puma Bomber had Rose out on his feet after 1 minute and 45 seconds of the first fight. Dick Cropley, local 120-pounder, meets Sudokov of give St. Joe a bangup ball game. According to present plans the team will relax after the pressure is off, and take a well-deserved sightseeing tour of Washington, D. C. In all, the trip will be a nine-day affair.

The players making the trip are as follows: Hoffman, Gutgsell, Pfeffer, Mosser, Boedeker, Schmidt, Bowman, Vanderkolk, Clark, and Sherman. Besides Coach Dienhart and varsity manager Owen Thuerk, Fathers Roof and Koller, and Brother Kosalko, will accompany the team.

ACADEMY PREPS FOR DIOCESAN STATE TOURNEY

St. Joseph's Academy Cubs are practicing with added zip this week in preparation for the high spot of their current season, the Indiana State Catholic high school tournament at Ft. Wayne starting Friday.

The Cubs will face St. Mary's Gaels of Anderson, Ind., in the first game of the Friday night session. The Gaels, who have won the tournament several times in recent years, are not up to par this year, and the local high-schoolers should be an even shot to beat them. In the event they subdue Anderson, St. Joe will most likely meet the favorite, Cathedral of Indianapolis, at 3:30 p. m., Saturday afternoon.

Dick Scharf's boys trimmed the two South Bend entries in the tournament during the past season and lost to Catholic Central of Hammond. Here is the schedule of the pairings for the event:

Friday
Game 1 (2:30)	Reitz Memorial, Evansville vs. South Bend Catholic.
Game 2 (3:30)	Cathedral, Indianapolis, vs. Decatur Catholic.
Game 3 (7:00)	St. Joseph's, Collegeville vs. St. Mary's, Anderson
Game 4 (8:00)	Huntington Catholic vs. Central Catholic, South Bend.
Game 5 (9:00)	Catholic Central, of Hammond vs. St. Mary's, Michigan City.
Saturday
Game 6 (2:30)	Central Catholic, Ft. Wayne, vs. winner of game 1.
Game 7 (3:30)	Winner of game 2 vs. winner of game 3.
Game 8 (7:30)	Washington Catholic vs. winner of game 4.
Game 9 (8:30)	Sacred Heart, Indianapolis vs. winner of game 5.
Sunday
Game 10 (2:30)	Winner of game 6 vs. winner of game 7.
Game 11 (3:30)	Winner of game 8 vs. winner of game 9.
Game 12 (8:00)	Loser of game 10 vs. loser of game 11 (consolation).
Game 13 (9:00)	Winner of game 10 vs. winner of game 11 (finals).

Jack Miller has announced that his boys will meet a group of Purdue golden glove stars here, March 3, in their next go after the Valpo match.

Lectures by Faculty Advisors in Print

In the January issue of the Catholic School Editor is an article entitled "Student Newspaper Can Lead Readers to More Catholic Life." It is a summary of the lecture delivered by the Rev. Sylvester Ley, C. PP. S., faculty advisor of STUFF, at the Catholic Press Congress held last fall in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Also appearing in print is the lecture given by the Rev. Paul F. Speckbaugh, C. PP. S., faculty advisor of Measure. "The Catholic Press in the World Today" relates the text of Fr. Speckbaugh's thesis, The Catholic School Magazine, in which he points out his views not only to the possibility and opportunity but also the positive need of better Catholic College magazines.

Optimism Shown Over Fieldhouse Progress

"For once I am optimistic about the Fieldhouse," said the Rev. John Schon, C. PP. S., when asked about the progress being made on the new structure.

Work has been completed on the concrete blocks which will form a basis for the basketball floor. Sidewalks around the utilities rooms will soon be finished.

Bulletin

St. Joe will meet Valpo in a return match at Valparaiso on February 21. Coach Jack Miller requests all possible candidates in the 118 to 130-pound classes to report to Turner Hall as soon as possible. St. Joe needs fellows to represent the college in this lighter weight division. Report now and get in shape!

Newman Club Scores With One-Act Plays

Laughter, long and loud, was the keynote Wednesday evening, Feb. 12, when the Academy Newman Club presented "Hired and Fired" and "Gracie," two one-act comedies, in Alumni Hall.

Responding to a full house, Joe Meder (dark complexion entirely artificial) and Eugene Fister, both Academy seniors, did well in their presentation of Larry E. Johnson's railroad skit.

Richard Arthur gave a realistic touch to the title role of "Gracie" and was supported by Earl Weiss, Terrence Ferguson, Frank Garancovsky, Richard Walker, and Jack Henry in producing a vivid picture of college life with its many (feminine) distractions.

Waltz of the Flowers by Tchakovsky and Rosemarin by Kreisler were presented by the college orchestra under the direction of Professor Paul Tonner, B. Mus.

Commerce Newspaper Prints First Sheet

Commerce Notes, Vol. 1, No. 1, the new journal of the Commerce Club, made its first appearance on the campus this week. Commerce Notes outlined its purpose to "inform, please, and promote interest in the Commerce Club."

The news sheet carried a summary of the club's activities since the '40-'41 term began. According to Notes the club will make a field trip to Fort Wayne on Feb. 28. Inspection tours of the Lincoln Life Insurance Co., International Harvester Co., and other industries are being planned.

Chicago Accepts Pre-Med Students

Two St. Joe pre-medical students, Robert Kessler and Peter Etzkorn, were accepted by the medical school of Loyola University on February 7.

Their credentials, based partly on the national medical test, which was taken here previously, were accepted by the committee of admission.

The Academy Corner

By Earl Weiss

Here and There: "Fitzsimons," said Father Rapp, Public Speaking professor, "You don't put enough weight into your arguments." What can poor Fitz do? He's 198 pounds already!

Frank Garancovsky, of "Gracie" fame, was perplexed no end when he came to the part in the script calling for his "bouncing onto the stage." "Sounds sort of dangerous to me," commented Frank.

But speaking of bouncing, it must be possible. Take Coach Joe Dienhart's health class last year. Coach threatened to "dribble" our venerable Paul Wehrle on one vexing occasion. No doubt, the process would have been interesting.

It will be "Ft. Wayne or bust" ("and bust!" maybe) for not only members of the basketball squad, who will set out Friday for the State Catholic Basketball Tournament, but also for many members of the Academy who will make the student trip with them. This change to cooler weather was not a little welcome to those Academy ice skaters who wasted no time in getting onto the re-frozen ice of the pond.

That the Academy students were especially interested in the Catholic Press Exhibit was evidenced by the large number that attended. Most popular with most of the students were Chambers' pictures and the book section.

The student trip, sponsored by the Rev. Rufus H. Esser, C. PP. S., has in these past few years become an annual event for the Academy department. Those accompanying the team will go to Fort Wayne via chartered bus. In Ft. Wayne they will stay at the Hotel Anthony.
